

INDEX TO VOLUME II

Abstracts—

- Adhesions about ascending colon simulating chronic appendicitis, Charles Davison, Marshall Davison and D. J. Boyer, 306.
- Aortic opacity on radioscopic examination, Modification of, M. Leconte, 112.
- Association of surgeon and radiologist in bone grafting, St. J. D. Buxton, 55.
- Benign uterine hemorrhage, Treatment of, by irradiation, W. C. Danforth, 194.
- Burns of skin, Late roentgen-ray, K. Grasmann, 118.
- Cancer by tar, Contributions to experimental production of, A. Sternberg, 437.
- Cancer, Deep therapy for, Proust, Mallet, and Coliez, 259.
- Cancer, Limitations in radiotherapy of, Frances C. Wood, 155.
- Cancer of breast: biological considerations in radiotherapy, M. J. Sittenfeld, 365.
- Cancer of cervix, Physical bases of irradiation of, by combined radiotherapy and radium therapy, R. Coliez, 195.
- Cancer of prostate: diagnosis and treatment, J. E. Burns, 64.
- Cancer of uterus, Verne C. Hunt, 364.
- Cancer, Results of deep roentgen therapy of, A. Gunsett and D. Sichel, 284.
- Carcinoma of cervix, Fifty cases of, treated with radium, M. Donaldson and R. G. Canti, 56.
- Cardiac pneumofibrosis, G. W. Holmes and D. S. Dann, 116.
- Chemistry of blood, Variations in, following radiation of tumors, M. Loeper and J. Tonnet, 276.
- Chest, Value of lateral projection in roentgen-ray examination of, with special reference to surgical treatment of abscess of lung, L. T. Le Wald and N. W. Green, 276.
- Circulation in general, Methods of demonstrating, as applied to study of renal circulation in particular, F. Hinman, D. M. Morison, and R. K. Lee-Brown, 58.
- Clinical history and serial plate examinations, in differential X-ray diagnosis of inflammatory lesions of chest, L. R. Sante, 111.
- Coagulation of blood, Action of roentgen rays upon, Pagniez, Ravina and Solomon, 195.
- Colon treated surgically, Consideration of lesions of, E. Starr Judd, 281.
- Colon, X-ray examination of, by means of barium enema, L. J. Menville, 438.
- Costodiaphragmatic adhesions and their influence on respiratory function, W. S. Middleton, 113.
- Cumulative effect or summation of X-ray exposures given at varying intervals, S. L. Warren and G. H. Whipple, 142.
- Deep therapy, two hundred kilovolts or more, Our experience in use of, D. Y. and J. P. Keith, 13.
- Dermatologic therapy, Modern, Howard Fox, 279.
- Diaphragm, Elevation of: unilateral phrenic paralysis. A radiological study, with special reference to differential diagnosis, J. M. W. Morison, 283.
- Disappearance of tuberculous peritonitis eight days after use of 11 cgm. of radium, P. Bull, 89.
- Distortion due to divergence of X-rays, An instrument for measuring, E. C. Hill, 194.
- Diverticula of stomach from roentgenologic point of view, Ake Akerlund, 365.
- Dystocia by cicatricial stenosis of cervix consecutive to intra-cervical radium applications, H. Vignes and L. Cornil, 21.
- Effects of roentgen rays and radio-active substances on living cells and tissues, L. Loeb, 56.
- Endothermy in treatment of accessible neoplastic diseases, George A. Wyeth, 439.
- Epithelial overgrowths in pre-stomach of rats, produced experimentally by action of thallium, A. Buschke and B. Peiser, 437.
- Epitheliomata, Grading of, and their radiation sensibility, Rex Duncan and E. D. Ward, 358.
- Ethmo-sphenoidal sinusitis, Practical considerations of, with lantern slides of roentgenograms, J. H. Harter, 54.
- Evantration of diaphragm, M. B. Clopton, 194.
- Fibromyoma of uterus, Limitations of radiotherapy in management of, J. A. Corscaden, 193.
- Fibromyomata of uterus refractory to roentgenotherapy? Are there, H. Bécélère, 275.
- Fluoroscope in modern cardiology, L. F. Bishop, 54.
- Gall-bladder disease, Some practical points in diagnosis and treatment of, W. L. Peple, 279.
- Gall-bladder surgery, Opinions on various questions in, based on 1,000 operations, S. McGuire, 282.
- General practitioner, Value to, of X-ray examination of stomach and duodenum, A. Henriques, 285.
- Hard rays in living organism, S. L. Warren and G. H. Whipple, 118.
- Hemangioma, with calcification: pre-operative and post-operative X-ray findings, H. J. Ravold, 362.
- High voltage X-ray, Further observation in use of, R. H. Millwee, 25.
- High voltage X-ray therapy: six months' experience, S. Moore, 38.
- High voltage X-rays, Practical application of, S. C. Barrow, 280.
- Higher voltage shorter wave length roentgen rays, radium, and electrothermic coagulation, Treatment of malignant disease by means of new, J. Thompson Stevens, 438.
- Hydronephrosis, B. H. Nichols, 277.
- Hyperthyroidism, Roentgen-ray treatment of, J. T. McKinney, 285.
- Ileocecal incompetence, Clinical analysis of 1,000 cases, with some deductions therefrom, N. W. Jones, 120.
- Ileo-colic stasis: its clinical consequences and treatment, Sidney K. Simon, 362.
- Index and angle of Bordet-Vaquez in cardiac examination, Some observations on value of, D. S. Dann, 191.
- Intracranial passages, Roentgenotherapy of, following spinal air injections, C. L. Martin and C. Uhler, 285.
- Intubation, X-ray study of, E. Giddings and D. E. Ehrlich, 54.
- Iodized oil for radiologic contrast, Use of, J. A. Sicard and J. Forestier, 110.
- Keloids, Treatment of, with radium, Laurence R. Taussig, 363.
- Knee joint, Surgery of, Willis C. Campbell, 282.
- Lung, Primary carcinoma of, K. Playfair and C. P. G. Wakeley, 274.
- Lymphosarcomata and other glandular enlargements of neck: their radiation treatment, E. H. Skinner, 117.
- Malignant tumors of testicle in children, Adolph A. Kutzmann and Thomas E. Gibson, 119.
- Osteomyelitis, Urban Maes, 280.
- Paget's disease of bone (osteitis deformans). Monosteitic type of, Francis C. Newton, 278.
